The 25-Point Brand Identity Checklist

Run through every item below. Each unchecked box is a gap between where your brand is and where it needs to be to look and feel professional. Most businesses check fewer than 15.

---

1. Strategic foundation

- ☐ We have a one-sentence description of what we do and who it's for
- ☐ Our mission statement is written down, not just implied
- ☐ We can name our top 3 competitors and how we differ from them
- ☐ We've defined our target audience beyond "everyone"
- ☐ We have a clear, single unique value proposition

2. Visual identity

- ☐ We have a primary logo in vector format (.ai, .eps, or .svg)
- ☐ We have logo variations (horizontal, stacked, icon-only)
- ☐ We have a logo version that works in black & white
- ☐ We've defined a primary color palette (3-5 colors, with hex codes)
- ☐ We've defined a secondary/accent color palette
- ☐ We have a primary brand typeface for headlines
- ☐ We have a secondary typeface for body text
- ☐ We know our logo's minimum size and clear space rules

3. Voice & messaging

- ☐ We've defined 3-5 words that describe our brand's tone
- ☐ We have example phrases of how we do (and don't) sound
- ☐ We have a consistent way we describe our product/service
- ☐ We've written guidelines for punctuation, capitalization, and slang
- ☐ We know which words or phrases we deliberately avoid

4. Applied consistency

- [ ] Our social media profiles use matching colors, fonts, and imagery
- [ ] We have templates for common social post types
- [ ] Our website matches our brand colors and typography
- [ ] Our email signature reflects our current brand
- [ ] Our invoices/proposals use branded templates, not defaults

5. Documentation

- [ ] All of the above lives in one document our team can reference
- [ ] That document has been updated in the last 12 months

Scoring your results

20-25 checked — Your brand foundation is solid. Focus on consistency across channels.
10-19 checked — You have pieces in place but real gaps are costing you credibility.
Under 10 checked — Your brand identity needs to be built from the ground up before your next marketing push.
